TPG ARCHITECTURE ANNOUNCES FIRMWIDE PROMOTIONSNew York-Based A&D Firm Advances Seven to Mid and Senior Level Management Positions

New York, NY—New York headquartered-TPG Architecture recently announced the promotion of seven professionals, which became effective as of Q1, 2008. Of the three most senior promotions, one came from within TPG's Retail studio, while the Corporate practice announced the appointment of two top level directors. The remaining four individuals were promoted to Studio Director. The announcement was made after a comprehensive review of TPG's in-house talent—just in time for the firm's annual spring celebration.

Michael DeLisio, promoted to Studio Director of Corporate

Michael DeLisio is a dedicated and innovative project manager with over ten years of experience. His responsibilities include overseeing projects through completion, specializing in representing the client, coordinating consultants, and providing construction administration services. He's a valuable team leader with broad architectural experience.

Thomas Hughes, RA, Associate Principal, promoted to Studio Director of Corporate

Tom Hughes is an experienced project manager and architect who has applied his design and technical skills to a wide range of projects including offices, retail and residential facilities. He has been involved in design development, detail development, construction documents and construction coordination, including coordinating with engineers and other consultants. Mr. Hughes joined TPG Architecture in 1999.

Edgar Krois, RA, promoted to Associate Principal

Ed Krois' professional experience encompasses master planning, interior planning and design, and base building renovation. His intuitive, steadfast and organized approach to his projects fuels his growth. He is a registered architect in the states of New York and New Jersey. Mr. Krois also brings to each project his insight and leadership gained by several prominent professional memberships and affiliations. Ed has a Bachelor of Architecture and a Bachelor of Fine Arts from Syracuse University. He has been with TPG Architecture since 1987.

Luc Massaux, Senior Associate, promoted to Associate Principal/Managing Design Director

Luc Massaux has over 20 years of professional experience covering projects of widely ranging size and scope. He has displayed exceptional skills in space planning, design and design development, detailing and construction documents. His ability to create strong, simple solutions for difficult design challenges and his diverse range of skills have made him an invaluable asset to TPG Architecture.

Kenneth Peng, AIA, Senior Associate, promoted to Studio Director of Corporate

Combining over fifteen years of architectural design, project management, real estate and facilities management experience with an emphasis in the financial and software industries, Mr. Peng brings a unique perspective to his role as Studio Director. He is a Registered Architect in the State of New York and a member of the American Institute of Architects. Mr. Peng joined TPG in 2003.
